The Romulus Roman

Hello, Santa

By all measures, the Romulus Christmas tree lighting ceremony Friday evening was deemed a huge success. Approximately 600 residents, among them at least 300 of Romulus' younger citizens, lined the area surrounding Billmar's parking lot on Goddard Road in downtown Romulus, the site of the city's official yuletide tree and had a good ol' fashioned time. Co-sponsored by the city of Romulus, the Chamber of Commerce and the Romulus Downtown Business District, the festivities were led off with a sing-a-long, led by the Romulus Brownie scouts and those men in blue, the Cub Scouts. Afterwards, the crowd was treated to a 20-minute set of music to swing Santa by, when the Romulus Senior High School Band whipped through their numbers. In a horse drawn sleigh with Christmas Carol, was the man of the hour (or, to be more accurate, month), Santa Claus himself. Santa received the key to the city from Mayor Beverly McAnally, much to the vocal pleasure of the surrounding masses. Tanya Nielson, a second grader at Wick Elementary School had been chosen for the honor of turning on the tree lights, and cheers abounded as she pulled the switch. Her smile alone could have lit the tree, but the fine decorating job had everyone more than satisfied. Afterwards, Santa and quite a few of the gathered throng walked over to South Junior High School, where Santa heard requests for that special morning from all the good little boys and girls.

Then, he had to hurry off, mumbling something about the elves being behind on Cabbage Patch Kids and Trivial Pursuit games. Debrah Dick, the city parks and recreation director, said that "everything went wonderful. The cold weather may have kept a few home, but overall we're pleased with the turnout." Shown cheering Santa on are (from left) Jolly ol' Saint Nick, McAnally, tree-lighter extraordinaire Tanya Nielson, and substitute emcee Dan Bales.

Police confiscate drugs, money in raid

The Romulus Police Department, working in conjunction with the State Police, arrested a 34-year-old Romulus man and reportedly confiscated nearly $30,000 and more than 67 grams of alleged PCP.

PCP, actually a slang term for phencyclidine, a compound originally meant as a tranquilizer for animals, is often abused in its powdered form by people (it's also known by its more cliched moniker, "angel dust").

Police entered the home at approximately 5 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 3, armed with a search warrant and discovered the money and the suspicious substance which, according to police, has since been confirmed by the State Police crime lab as PCP.

Arrested was Ivan Hall, a resident of Meadow Street. Hall was arraigned and charged with possession with intent to deliver an illegal substance. Preliminary examination is set to take place today in 34th District Court in Romulus.

According to Lt. Det. Ken Kraus of the Romulus Police, the street value of the confiscated drug is "around $4,000."

Reportedly, there was one other individual in the home at the time of the search, but no other arrests were made at the time.

Police say there is an ongoing investigation, of which this particular arrest was only a part.

be put on a low priority level, which means that it will be put on a regular work schedule."

According to Romulus reserve fire fighters Jim Whitehill, Dave Allison, Steve Ryznar, Oscar Hamilton and Kris Weimer, they were contacted at 11:45 when a woman living in the area called the police dispatcher complaining of the smell. They, in turn, contacted MichCon. Some of the men stated that "judging by the odor of the gas, it could have been much worse than it ended up being."

Gas problem hits city

Romulus reserve fire fighters were pulled from the comfort of their homes late Sunday and through the early cold, wet hours of Monday as they responded to reports of a gas leak. Aided later by MichCon employees, it was determined that there was indeed a leak, albeit minor.

Louder please

It is not unusual, at a Romulus City Council meeting, to have one or more citizens chime in on the proceedings with a hardy "Speak up!" or a "We can't hear you!"

In response, Romulus Community Relations Director Dennis Davidson has brought an outline for revamping the public address system in the council chambers, in accordance with the recommendation of Sound Engineering, who installed the system currently in use.

The recommendation brought before council is to replace all 10 microphones being used by the elected officials with omni-directional ones, replace all cords for the microphones, install a four-unit module in the amplifier to increase capacity from 12 to 16 microphones, and to install an adjustable "gooseneck" on the microphone stand that is used at the podium.

The estimated cost of the system is $2,987.

"Not only will this help citizens who attend the council meetings now," said Davidson, "but it should also be a boon if and when Barden Cablevision of Romulus begins broadcasting the council meetings over the air."

Monday night, council approved the motion unanimously.

Schools save money, refinance bonds

Quick action by the Romulus school board has led to savings to taxpayers, totalling $228,000.

The enactment of Public Act 157 on June 21 made it possible for the Romulus schools and other governmental units to refinance existing debts at lower interest rates. The legislation was particularly interesting to the Romulus Board of Education's Finance Committee — board members JoAnn Marvickin, Ken Berlinn and Ed Wilkerson; citizens Steve Ogilbee and Ron Nash; Manufacturers National Bank Vice-President Leo Kalota and business administrator Joel R. Carr — since the school board had issued a $3 million debt at approximately 11 percent in 1982.

The committee, working with A.G. Edwards & Sons, Inc., the seventh largest investment banking corporation in the country, looked into the feasibility and practicality of pursuing this matter. In August, the committee recommended and the board of education voted to pursue a refinancing plan. With the cooperation of state and local officials, the package was prepared and presented to the Department of Treasury. Robert Bowman, the State Treasurer, and his staff were very helpful in assisting the school district and A.G. Edwards to expedite the transactions.

Those actions permitted the schools to sell new bonds at 7.5 percent, a very favorable rate compared to the 11 percent on the 1982 issue. The new bonds are used to pay off the 1982 debt on its call date at the rate of 7.5 percent.

The net savings to the taxpayer is $228,000 over the remaining six years of this issue. The savings will be reflected by a reduction in the millage rate to retire the new issue (1984).

In the spirit

We here at the Romulus Roman have been getting phone calls from excited residents, telling us about their neighbor's house decorations. In response, we sent a photographer out to help us share the yuletide adornments with our readers. Now, there's yet another outlet for those praises. The Romulus Beautification Committee is sponsoring a home decorating award, which will be judged on Dec. 18. Anyone who feels their home shows off the essence of Christmas spirit or, anyone who even sees a home they deem worthy of the prize and glory should call the city community relations department at 941-0666.

Deadline nears on Orange suit

Congressman Sanader Levin (D-Southfield) is reminding Vietnam veterans that Jan. 2, 1985, is the last day that they can file claims with a federal court to receive financial compensation for health ailments caused by exposure to Agent Orange.

This spring, a $180 million settlement was reached in a class action lawsuit brought by Vietnam veterans against seven chemical companies. The Vietnam veterans charged that exposure to Agent Orange has adversely affected their health, causing health problems such as skin disorders, respiratory problems and cancer. Birth defects in veterans' children and miscarriages of wives were also reported.

Vietnam veterans suffering from health problems associated with exposure to Agent Orange may obtain the "Agent Orange Claim Form" from the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of New York.

The court's special Agent Orange toll-free, hotline number is 1-800-645-2355. Also, the Vietnam Veterans of America, Detroit chapter 9, will mail a copy of the claim form to veterans, or the forms can be picked up from their office between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. They are located at 2951 Woodward Avenue, and the phone number is 832-6500.

Participants are invited to bring an ornament for the Christmas tree. Contributions of non-perishable food, toys and clothing will be gratefully accepted for local families in need.

The judge presiding over the settlement is currently exploring equitable plans for distributing the $180 million settlement fund.

The first step is to determine how many veterans are eligible. Therefore, the judge has requested that all Vietnam veterans who are experiencing health disorders believed to be attributable to Agent Orange exposure, file an "Agent Orange Claim Form" to describe their health problems.

"I am glad that the court is moving forward to resolve the claims of the selfless men and women who served our country in Vietnam. It is essential that all Vietnam veterans who think that their health, or the health of their families, has been affected by exposure to Agent Orange file the necessary claim form with the court as soon as possible," Levin stated.

Fast walking

Physical fitness's best kept secret

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

What's the best way to get into shape, lose weight and build up muscles and stamina? A few come to mind right off the bat — aerobics, jogging, tennis, fast walking ...

Fast walking? Yep. According to Charlotte Murphy, aerobics and fitness instructor for Romulus schools, fast walking is the absolute choice way to keep fit.

The answer to "what is fast walking" is not unlike the answer to "who's buried in Grant's tomb?" It is simply walking fast. "Brisk, vigorous walking is one of the best kept secrets when it comes to exercise," says Murphy, who has worked in the physical education department of Romulus schools for three years.

It's great," she says. "It's an exercise for people of all ages, including senior citizens." According to Murphy, there are only two meetings of her class left prior to the holidays, but new classes will be starting up after the first of the year. Sponsored by Romulus Adult Education, anyone wishing to sign up for the next series of

"With walking, the effects may be slower in coming, but it's easier to keep up. It's also a good cardiovascular workout..."

— Instructor Charlotte Murphy

classes should call their office at 941-0610, according to Murphy.

"This time of year, it's a very good way to get ready for and maintain the strengths needed in winter sports, such as skiing and skating," Murphy said. "It really builds up the legs."

"Also, it's a very good way for the people who jog and run through the summer months but are curtailed by the winter to keep their leg muscles in shape, otherwise they would weaken quite a bit," Murphy said.

According to advocates of fast walking, not only is it safer than jogging and aerobics, but the effects should be longer-lasting.

"With running or aerobics, a lot of people get really burned out, wear themselves down. With walking, the effects may be slower in coming, but it's easier to keep up," Murphy said, adding that "it's also a good cardiovascular workout, because when you walk, you pump your arms, which gets the blood pumping through the heart."

Reasons to start a walking program include, says Murphy, "losing weight, people don't get bored with it like other exercises, it can be done virtually anywhere, no equipment is needed, and it helps people with insomnia sleep better."

"Also," she says, "what fast walking does to people's stress level is incredible ... it's a natural anti-depressant. It gives a very uplifting effect, really a mental lift."

Some research has indicated that while people seem to have the impression that jogging is great for everyone, it just isn't so. It can put too much stress on the heart, and also on other parts of the body.

"With jogging," says Murphy, "you have constant blows to the heels and knees, which have been known to cause bruises and even fractures. With fast walking, one never even breaks into a run — at least they aren't supposed to — or loses their breath. The walker sets their own pace. Mainly, you just develop a longer stride."

Murphy, who has been singing the praises of walking for "about three years now," stresses that anyone participating, whether in her class or on their own, do at least 20 minutes of warm-ups, and take 20 or more minutes to cool off afterwards.

Even though most people would think they have no trouble walking, Murphy says that there are certain techniques that can be helpful.

"Classes are very nice, because not only do you learn the ins and outs, but you're doing it with a group, which seems to lessen fatigue," she said, adding a few helpful hints for the novice like: bend the arms at a 90-degree angle, which shortens the normal pendulum swing to conform to your quicker leg movements; inhale on the first two steps, exhale on the next two, and so forth; step heel first, let your weight roll along the outside of the foot and proceed across the ball to the big toe; after you decide to take up fast walking, it's good to invest in a good pair of walking shoes. Many specialty stores and department stores carry them.

"I've taught exercise for more than 10 years now," says Murphy, "and I've never found anything to compare with this as far as total body fitness goes. Everybody should try it."

Huron Goodfellows' dinner

Families are advised to bring their appetites along Wednesday, Dec. 12, when they can fill up on steaming good food and be helping a good cause at the same time. Who says you can't do two things at once?

The Huron Merchant Spaghetti Dinner will be held from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the basement of St. Stephen's Church, located at 18858 Huron River Drive, New Boston.

Everything is being donated, so every penny taken in will go to the Goodfellows, a spokesman said.

Prices are $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for children age 12 and under, and that entitles them to a large portion of spaghetti, salad, bread and butter, dessert, coffee and milk.

Canned goods collected

The Kwik Helpers, along with the Romulus Branch of Security Bank, is collecting canned goods and toys to help needy people in the area this Christmas season. Anyone wishing to donate may do so by dropping off their donations at the bank which is located at the corner of Wayne and Hermans streets.

Santa's mail box

Santa's Mail Box is located, once again this year, in front of the Romulus Library.

Sponsored by the Romulus Civic League, each letter dropped off there will be delivered to the Jolly Old Elf personally.

"We will assure that Santa will read all the Christmas requests," said the League's Willie Hester. "We urge all of Romulus' boys and girls to make use of this special mail box."

Huron election mocks results

On Nov. 1, students at Huron High School participated in a state and national mock election.

More than 200 schools participated in the event. Grant Smart, who teaches history at Huron, organized the participation of Huron High students, who were required to register to vote two weeks prior to the election.

Two voting booths, designed by the school's industrial arts class, were set up near the cafeteria on election day.

Approximately 75 percent of the student body participated, and the national, state and local results were very similar to the Nov. 6 elections, according to Smart.

Dinner is a success

"It was a tremendous success," was the reply

Romulus Sesquicentennial Co-Chairman Kris DeTroyer gave when asked about their recent "Old Fashioned Dinner."

The dinner was held at the Romulus VFW Hall.

'Fair share' policy overdue

The placement of adult foster care facilities in local communities is a prime example of "unresponsive government" in action. Saddled by the mandates of a state law that effectively renders them powerless, municipal and township officials have been relegated to the role of by-standers and scapegoats while adult foster care homes have been built in their neighborhoods.

We support the concept of the small group home program. The mentally impaired have every right to interact in a normal setting whenever possible. So what is the problem?

These homes continue to be located throughout the metropolitan Detroit area with no apparent rhyme or reason as to the site selection process. Some communities have more than 20 foster care facilities within their boundaries; others have one or two, if any.

Attempts by Sen. William Faust of Westland to add some local involvement in the selection process have fallen on deaf ears to date. What remains is a system that gives citizens and their elected local representatives little, if any, input into the location of a foster care facility.

Local officials inform homeowners living within 1,500 feet of a proposed group home by letter, which includes information on the type of home (mentally ill or retarded), number of residents and other pertinent information. At a public hearing residents often ask questions regarding the reasoning behind the selection of a particular site. Generally, the council or township board has no logical answers to give.

State Act 28 of the Public Acts of 1977, which governs the licensing of foster care homes, simply fails to provide any meaningful criteria that would insure the placement of these facilities in a fair manner. Despite complaints and litigation, the State Legislature has remained silent on the issue for the most part.

The City of Wayne recently adopted a resolution pushing for a "fair share" policy that would apply across the state, rather than in a concentrated geographic location. We concur with the resolution, recently ratified by officials in Van Buren Township and the City of Romulus and urge state lawmakers to quickly deal with the inadequacies and discrepancies in the licensing act.

If the placement of the mentally retarded and mentally ill in such settings is a positive development — and we feel it has proven to be so — then such placement should occur on an equitable basis in each community in the state.

The "fair share" policy proposals, which are listed below, are a step in the right direction.

1 - The State should adopt a fair share policy, based on patient population, regarding the placement of the handicapped and the retarded in the cities and townships throughout the state.

2 - The cities and townships must be made an integral part in the planning and placement of these facilities, consistent with their use responsibilities.

3 - To encourage compliance, the State's

NAACP story

To the Editor:

As a candidate for the highest office in the Inkster NAACP, it is my strong feeling that I have a compelling obligation to the membership and to the community. I shall strive to effectively tell the NAACP story to the membership and to the community.

I would remind you that the vision and the courage that moved that small group in New York in 1909 to organize the NAACP is still moving all over America today. It is moving in Inkster, the home of Earl Jones, an Olympic Champion of 1984.

There must be a strong commitment to that vision. I make that commitment; and with your help and your prayers, there is no doubt in my mind that we can together build an Inkster NAACP Chapter that our state and our nation can be proud of.

I am happy to announce that Rev. Larry O. Hines, Pastor of Inkster's Springhill Baptist Church, joins me as a candidate for first vice-president. Won't you join us as we rebuild the Inkster NAACP?

And ... In the immortal words of the late James Weldon Johnson, who gave us the inspiring song "Lift Every Voice and Sing" - "Facing the Rising Sun of A New Day Begun .. Let Us March On 'Till Victory Is Won, — Together."

Tired of assault

To the Editor:

I'm tired of seeing people assaulted, mugged and robbed and I'm especially worried about the senior citizens and the very young.

Life and death

Last week, death came calling. As a result, things will never be the same.

While all of the circumstances are not yet known, it appears that Mr. Harry Scott suffered a heart attack at the wheel of his automobile while he was driving west on Michigan Avenue in Wayne last Thursday. One witness said that Mr. Scott drove through two red traffic signals without hesitation.

We were engrossed in a department head meeting at Associated Newspapers. Sitting in the upstairs conference room at about 11:20 a.m. we not only heard a loud crash, but felt a tremor which shook the building, and us. Bob Gaberson, our business manager leapt from his chair, looked down from a front window ... "There's been an accident," he said, "A car hit the building."

Some scrambled for phones to call for police and rescue units, others raced down the steps and out the door into the cold to determine the condition of the driver. Mr. Scott was unconscious, had a gaping head wound and was obviously in very serious condition. Prying open the doors to the steaming, smoking car, bystanders attempted to help Mr. Scott with words of comfort and fresh air.

It always seems, in an emergency, that the rescue workers and police take an eternity to arrive. Actually, they arrived in only moments. The EMTs worked feverishly and efficiently to carefully remove Mr. Scott from behind the wheel, slide and lift him onto a backboard and place him on a stretcher. They slid the stretcher into the waiting rescue unit and sped away ... all in minutes. We heard, through the fire engine speaker, that Mr. Scott was in cardiac arrest.

I have since learned that Mr. Scott was 78 years old and a resident of Taylor. In his 1979 Pontiac was a walker and on the windshield was a handicapped identification sticker.

It is sad when a family loses someone ... particularly at this time of year. I feel sorrow for the family of Harry Scott.

I think of the path his automobile had traveled — not only had it passed through two intersections against the signal, but it crossed over the sidewalk and leveled a very tall sign that stood on the Gas N' Go property next door to us before colliding with our building.

A few feet to the left and the automobile would have come through the front of the building and probably injured several of our employees. Had there been pedestrians on the sidewalk, they could have easily been injured or killed. Had cross traffic been heavy in the intersections, there might have been deaths or injuries there as well. Mercifully, all were spared.

Although death is a part of life, we find it difficult to accept "its" eventuality. As philosopher E. James Rohn says, "Life is serious business. It is so serious that none of us will get out of it alive."

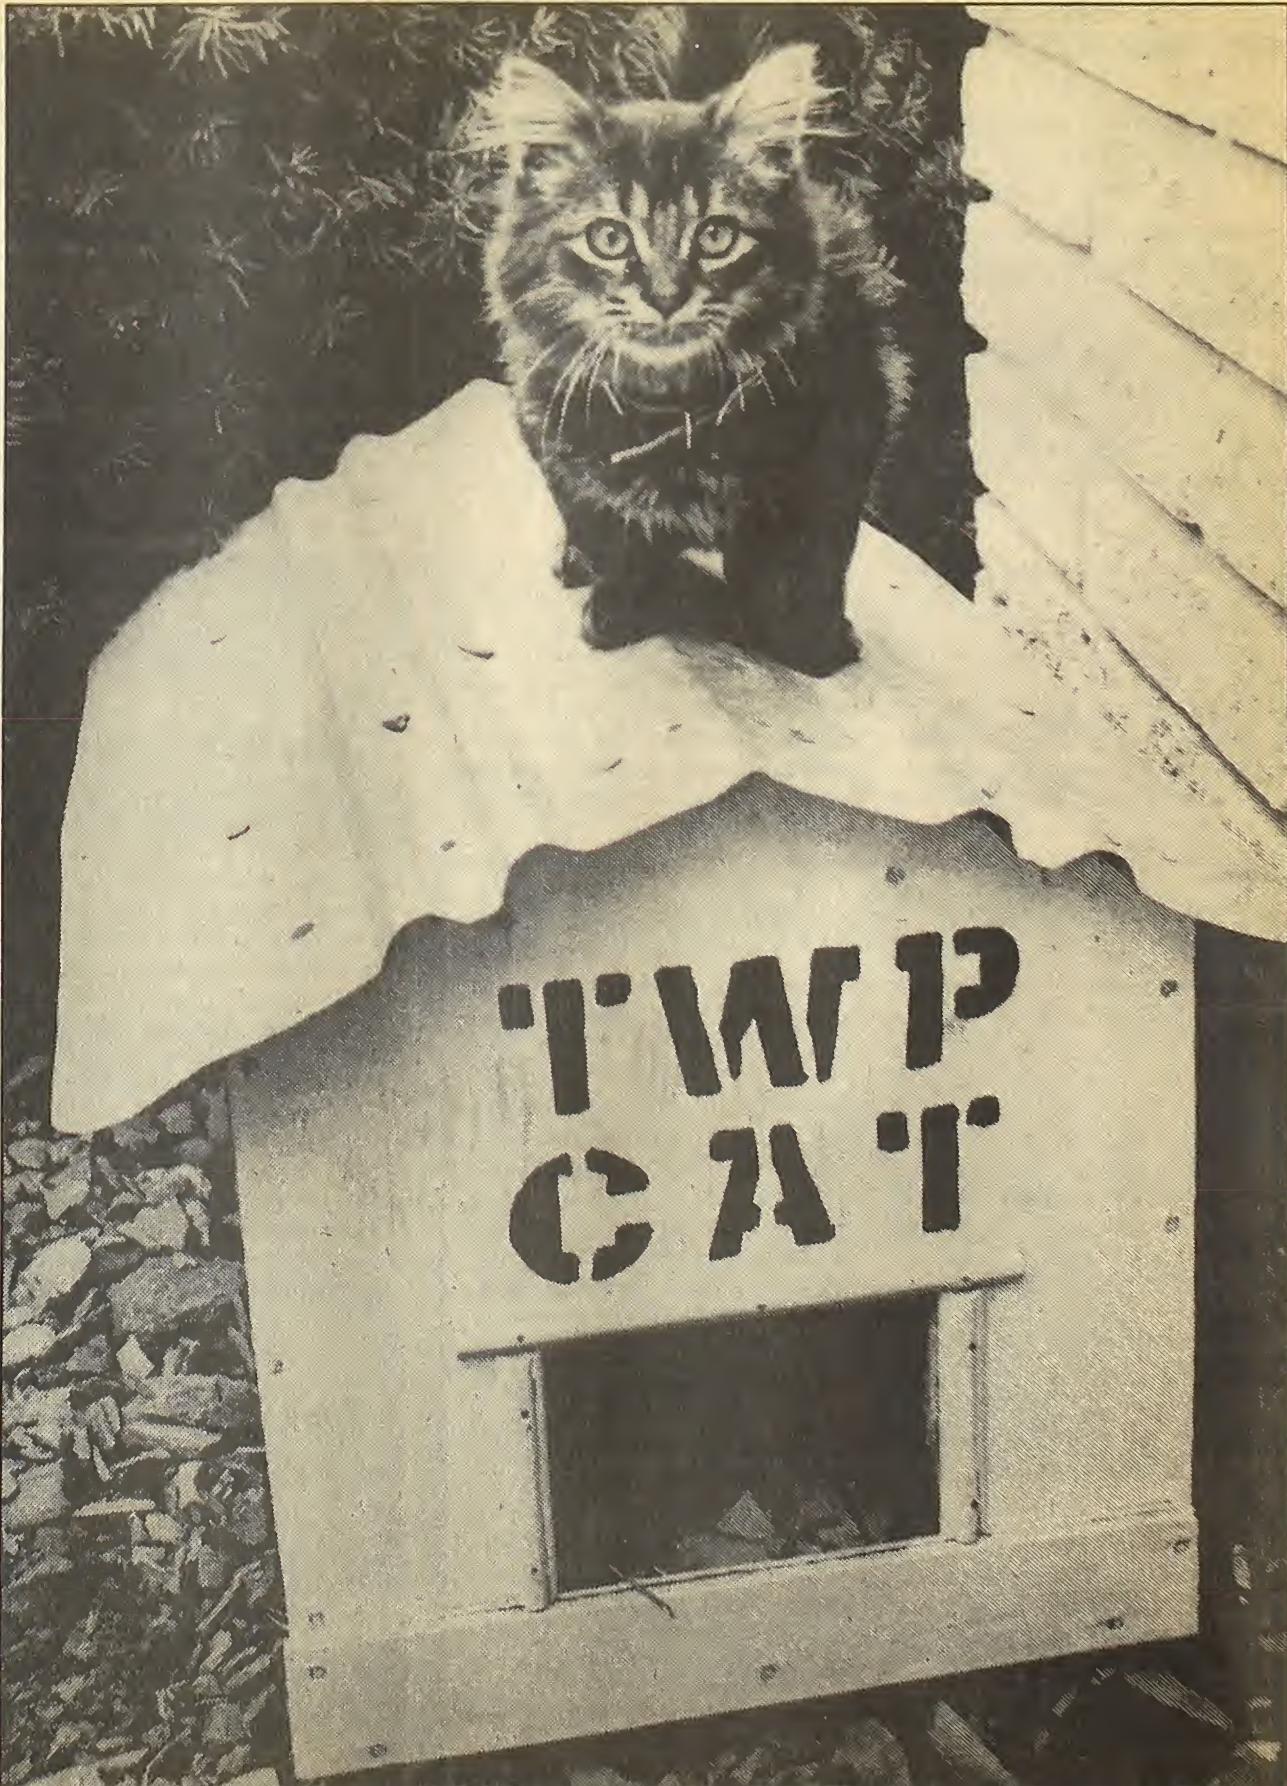

We often lose sight of what life is all about. It is the most precious gift our creator can bestow upon us. What we choose to do with it, and how we "spend" it, should be our gift to God.

We can spend it foolishly, mired in trivial pursuits, self-indulgence or self-pity, or we can work to accomplish worthy goals. We can help others and strive to bring about positive change for the benefit of mankind. We can attempt to "make a difference."

I remember some years ago when I went to work at the Detroit Free Press, they asked via the employment application, what you wanted to accomplish in life.

Well done

Twenty years on the job is a noteworthy achievement. Officials from the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority recently recognized several employees with 20-year service pins. Among those honored were Ulrich Bauser, the executive director of the Authority, located on Inkster Road in Dearborn Heights; Dolores Hidalgo, administrative assistant; Joe Barr, a scalemaster, and Robert Steinhauer, a transfer station operator. On hand for the ceremonies were Bob McLachlan (left), representative from Dearborn Heights; Wally Arrowsmith, retired representative from Wayne; Bauser; Jim Colligan, representing the City of Inkster; Barr; Hidalgo, and Henry Lundquist, representing the City of Westland.

My answer then was that I "wanted to make a difference." That I, "would like to know at life's end that this world was a better place because I had lived." I have not strayed from that conviction.

None of us will know for certain when death will call to claim us. Harry Scott didn't know, and that brings home some very basic truths to all of us.

When age and infirmity set in, we know that every day is a gift. Too often, unfulfilled lives are snuffed out through accident or illness. I am thankful that didn't happen on Michigan Avenue last week.

And I'm thankful to Mr. Scott. He reminded me of how precious each day is. See you next week.

'Fair share' policy overdue

fair share policy could be linked to the reimbursement of State funds for various programs.

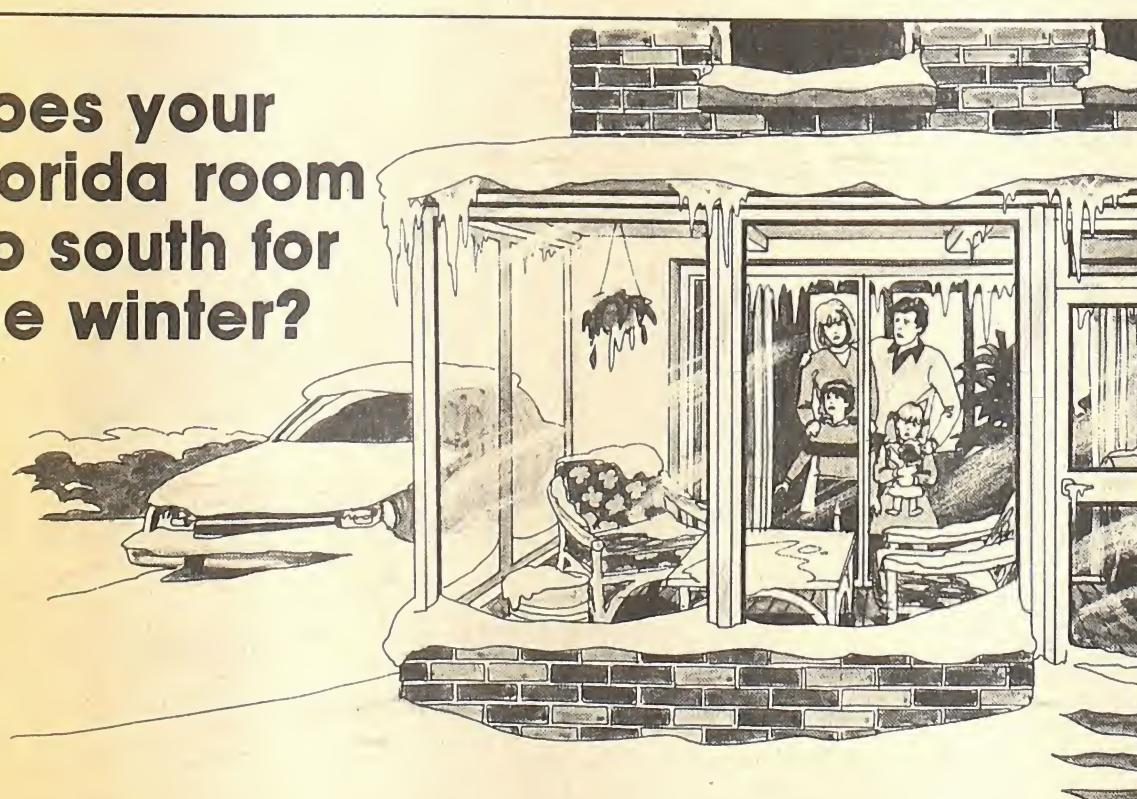

4 - The State should stop processing all adult foster care licenses until the present legislation is reviewed and a fair share policy is adopted.

5 - The State should increase the level of staffing and better train the individuals who own/operate group homes.

LIFE DOWN UNDER

does your Florida room go south for the winter?

Do you lose the use of your enclosed porch or Florida room when temperatures start dropping ... as if that extra room had left town for the winter? Extend the life of this valuable living space by adding permanently installed supplemental electric heat. Enjoy clean, flameless, even heat, without fumes, by going electric. For automatically timed and controlled heat when and where you want it, without the expense of additional ductwork, supplemental electric space heating is the practical answer.

Call Detroit Edison or check your Yellow Pages under Electrical Contractors or Lighting Suppliers, for ways to keep your Florida room a space for all seasons.

Parents, what's the matter with you? Do you know where your kids are and what they are doing?

Citizens, are you content to sit on your backsides and not get involved in the problems of our city? Do you like being robbed, mugged, beaten up, broken into?

Have you helped the police and city council in this matter? Have you formed neighborhood watches and joined in actively in the patrols? You will be the first ones to complain when it's your turn to get mugged, robbed or beaten up.

Who is the boss in this situation? The punks and hoodlums that hang out on the street corners or in roving gangs at party stores playing video games and looking for trouble.

Let's get active as a community and get these problems resolved, and put the authority where it rightfully belongs with the parents. Parents are the ones to blame because they either don't care, run scared of their little darlings or figure that the police, city and state will take care of the situation.

I'm a very angry parent, grandparent and great-grandparent and I am involved.

Christmas Seals

To the Editor:

The American Lung Association, the nation's oldest voluntary public health agency, is chiefly supported by contributions from Americans — young and old, in every walk of life and economic bracket — to the Christmas Seal Campaign.

Throughout its 80-year history, the volunteers of the Lung Association — called the Christmas Seal People — have been and continue to be a dominant force in public health education, particularly in all areas related to lung health. They point out that cigarette smoking is the greatest single cause of chronic pulmonary diseases, including lung cancer, emphysema and bronchitis. Recent statistics show that 110,000 Americans died of lung cancer last year, an increase of 41 percent over the number who died 10 years ago.

Women in particular are gaining "equality" with men in the lung cancer mortality race. A total of 139,000 newly diagnosed lung cancer cases are projected for 1984 and increasingly these are women. By the year 2,000, if not earlier, lung cancer will overtake breast cancer as the leading cause of death among American women nationally.

The far-reaching programs of the American Lung Association include counseling on the dangers of smoking during pregnancy; conducting a massive public education campaign to reach preadolescents before they begin smoking cigarettes or marijuana; teaching both children and adults with asthma how to self-manage the disease, initiating and supporting efforts to maintain clean air; acting on the dangers of occupational lung hazards; and creating health programs for schoolchildren from the primary grades up so they become knowledgeable about what's good — and what's bad — for their bodies.

Locally, the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan has set a goal of $700,000 for this year's Christmas Seal Campaign. Ninety percent of every dollar stays here in Wayne-Oakland and Macomb counties to fund over 40 free community services. The remaining 10% goes to the national headquarters of the American Lung Association to fund lung diseases research and community service program development on a nationwide basis.

I urge all of your readers to answer their Christmas Seal letter with a generous contribution — and, to everyone, use Christmas Seals on all your holiday cards and packages!

Games and sports

Where's our culture's values?

To whom do we give praise?
We idolize our games and sports
In many different ways.

Our heroes are the football stars
And baseball's hall of fame.
"Pro" golfers triumph on the green,
All for just a game.

We pay the highest wages
To the victors on the field,
Who sign a long-term contract
For a million dollar yield.

Physical dexterity
Is what we emphasize.

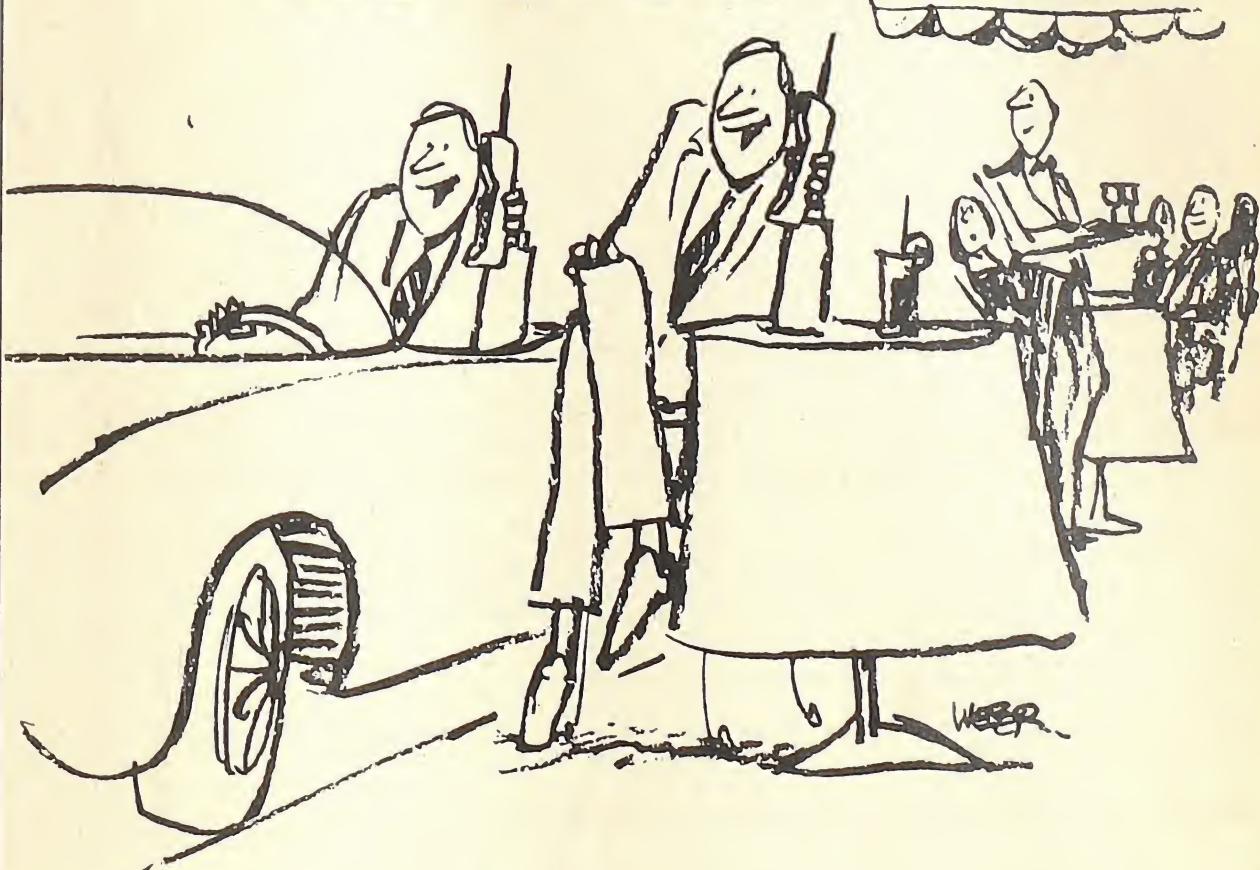

Coordination's skill
Is where we specialize.

The credits for all games and sports
Can never be too small,
But not in every measure
Should the greatest prizes fall.

The majesty that once was Greece
Immortalized the games,
But their teachers and philosophers
Are the world's greatest names.

what's that sound?

... by steve o'leary

"Rockin' Christmas - The 50's"
"Rockin' Christmas - The 60's"
(Rhino)

Want to get into the holiday spirit? Feel like singing along with a yuletide tune or two, but the thought of listening to Guy Lombardo, Bing Crosby or Pat Boone sends chills up and down your spine? Then maybe you should check out these two albums, the latest in a line of incredibly well-done compilations released by the world's greatest little record company, Rhino. And no, they didn't pay me to say that (but, I'm willing if they are!).

Although the 50's album sounds great, I'll gladly admit that I'm not (quite) old enough to remember listening to these groups during my formative years. I'll also admit that these songs are great, from Bobby Helms' classic "Jingle Bell Rock" (OK, OK, that one I remember...) to The Youngsters' "Christmas In Jail," which boasts the eternal lines "I was in the wrong lane, feelin' no pain." Hey, don't be surprised to see Twisted Sister cover this one next year.

Another standout is "Santa and the Satellite," which must have been one of the first novelty "break in" records that were so popular in the mid-60's (you know, one of the people on the record — in this case either Buchanan or Goodman — asks a question which is answered by a lyric and snippet of song taken from a popular tune). And check out the real meaning of the Christmas song as generated by Cathy Sharpe, Three Aces and a Joker, Moods (and, before we're deluged with phone calls, this is NOT the same Moods' band that played at the Canton Sesquicentennial Ball last winter).

Ah, the 60's. I loved 'em. Memories of even some of the worst songs of that era — "In the Year 2525," "Indiana Wants Me," etc. — are fun in a nostalgic sense; it's really hard to believe that "2525" was the number one song in the country for weeks on end. But, on to Christmas.

And what a great album! Some of these I knew, like the Turtles hilarious "Santa and the Sidewalk Surfer" and James Brown's steaming "Let's Make Christmas Mean Something This Year," and others were newfound delights to a pop/rock Christmas song buff like me.

One of the best is by the Sonics, perhaps the best garage band ever to touch a four-track. It's called "Don't Believe In Christmas" and is from an obscure album I'm going to be searching everywhere for called "Merry Christmas From the Sonics, the Wailers, and the Galaxies."

*"Stayed up all night
To see Santa Claus, right?
Sure enough, don't ya know,
Fat Boy didn't show
Don't believe in Christmas
'Cause I didn't get nothin' last year"*

Sounding very much influenced by Dylan circa "Blonde on Blonde," the song continues with "Tried to get a little kiss
From a pretty little miss
She slapped me down, said 'Ya jerk!
Mistletoe doesn't work...'"

Like the Sonics, the Wailers hail from the great Northwest. Also like the Sonics, the selection here is from the same original album and it too seems extremely Dylan influenced. In the joyful, merry spirit of the season, the Wailers went out and recorded a great little three-chord ditty called "Christmas Spirit" that either is or mocks protest songs. It's hard to tell now. "Got-ta take the children down, to see the fat clown/who pretends to be what he ain't..." well, you get the idea.

Other laughers include "Dancing With Santa" by the Trashmen. In case you don't remember, the Trashmen were the guys who immortalized the tune "Surfin' Bird." (You know, "m-m-m-m-pow-pow-m-m-m-pow..."), and "Monster's Holiday," brought to you by none other than Bobby Boris Pickett & The Crypt Kickers, the group whose claim to fame will always be "Monster Mash."

Perhaps the rarest gem included in this package is "Christmas Is My Time of Year" by the Christmas Spirit. Actually a non-group, the Christmas Spirit was made up of various members of the Turtles, Gene Parsons, country-rock pioneer/martyr Gram Parsons, Linda Ronstadt and a bunch of people I've never heard of and probably weren't very important to the record anyway.

There isn't a bad cut on the LP, and as can be seen, they run the gamut from cheezy novelty songs to clear MOR standouts like Aretha Franklin's version of "Winter Wonderland" and Paul Revere & the Raiders' original

"Wear A Smile At Christmas."
For me though, I'll take "Santa and the Sidewalk Surfer" and

"Don't Believe In Christmas."
Next week: more holiday hi-fi-hi-jinks.

It's gonna be rockin' Christmas

by son's absences.

Sincerely, AB

Dear Principal:

I am sure that you are totally familiar with my son's record over the last two years at the high school and, therefore, probably equally aware of what I feel to be his responsibility with respect to attendance problems. At any rate, my son is presently in what I consider to be an untenable position, that of not being able to graduate with his class whether he attends summer school, night school or correspondence school.

In spite of this, and after much discussion between he and I, he has decided that he will attend school for the next two years, knowing that none of the "credits" he receives will be of any value to him and knowing that the only value received will be the "education" received.

As a mother, who is relatively well-educated, naturally I am pleased at his decision to stay in school, even under these circumstances. I, quite frankly, am not sure that at 16 years old, I would be strong enough to make this type of decision. I am not sure that I would not, if I was in this position, choose to quit school. Essentially, what I am saying is that I am proud of his decision and pray every day that he can stand by it.

Obviously, he is floundering vis a vis the attendance that he has exhibited thus far. I am working with him at home to continue to support his position and persuade him that what he is doing is the right thing. Inasmuch as our educational system places as much credence on grades and credits as it does on what the student actually learns, I am proud of my son and hope he can maintain his perspective. I appreciate your concern.

Sincerely, AB

RESOLUTION: The Principal responded with the following letter to AB:

"In response to your letter of October 7, I have the following comments. With the attendance your son has at the present time, I am doubtful that he will be able to pass any courses. If he continues and attends consistently, we may be able to see the accumulation of credits. However, if at the end of the marking period he is not passing, it might look better on his record if he withdrew. We could arrange for auditing the classes, if he desired to do so..."

Sincerely, Principal

This unfortunate incident occurred in 1981. The student has ultimately withdrawn from school and went to work for the next two years. It is good news to report that in 1983, he attended the GED Program and received his high school diploma and is looking forward to a rosy future.

I leave you to your own opinions as to the way that the school district handled this student's absentee behavior. I ask you only to remember that his punishment for 'skipping school' was to get kicked out of school. It seems to me that the school district played right into his hands.

club notes

"There's a Song in the Air" truly described the Christmas spirit, that prevailed at the December meeting of the Belleville Business & Professional Women's Club (BPW). Members were asked to donate food for the Belleville-Van Buren Chamber of Commerce and Omnicom Cable TV. The Salvation Army will distribute the collection of food to the less fortunate.

Members and guests exchanged Christmas gifts with much anticipation and satisfaction. Gwen Ashe played the piano, while many Christmas songs and carols were sung. The music completed the merry celebration. During the brief business meeting, the members were informed of the progress being made with the Young Careerist Project.

A abundance of canned goods and boxed goods (about 150) were near the base of the tree. Members were asked to donate food for the Belleville-Van Buren Chamber of Commerce and Omnicom Cable TV. The Salvation Army will distribute the collection of food to the less fortunate.

The members voted to send our two charter members, Irene Whalen and Marie Roberts, to the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame at the Fairlane Manor, Feb. 9.

Ruth Baehr related she had lived, as a child, in Itigi, East Africa, where her father was a missionary for the Christian Church of United States. Ruth learned the native language of Swahili, and sang for the members, "O Come All Ye Faithful," in Swahili.

The club members voted to give a $100 check to each of two families, for Christmas. Bonnie Smith, a 17-year-old girl and Jonathan King, a 6-year-old boy, are both fighting cancer illness and hopefully their Christmas will be a little brighter by the BPW gifts. Both children are in the Belleville school area. Any one who would like to remember these two young people, may do so by contacting Ruth Baehr at 697-7605 or Judy Taylor at 482-3473.

PRINCIPAL RECOMMENDS THAT 16 YEAR OLD WITHDRAW FROM SCHOOL

Dear Letter Writer:

Our high school has a policy that if a student is absent eight times, they are automatically kicked out of the class. If they are kicked out of more than two classes, they are kicked out of school. Help me write a letter to the principal explaining how I feel about

"There's a Song in the Air" truly described the Christmas spirit, that prevailed at the December meeting of the Belleville Business & Professional Women's Club (BPW).

The club met on Monday, Dec. 3, at the Faith United Methodist Church for a Christmas dinner. Many candles, snowmen and holly, along with red ribbons, decorated the dinner tables. The shapely six-foot Christmas tree was adorned with white doves and red ribbon bows with the Angel of Light topping the tree.

An abundance of canned goods and boxed goods (about 150) were near the base of the tree. Members were asked to donate food for the Belleville-Van Buren Chamber of Commerce and Omnicom Cable TV.
